LIGHTS OUT!

County council planning to switch off street lamps in many parts of Harlow between midnight and 5am

PLANS to switch off street lights throughout Harlow to save money were this week branded "unacceptable".

Essex County Council announced on Monday it was planning to extend part-night lighting to the town next February after pilot schemes elsewhere found there had been no negative impact on crime statistics or road accidents.

County Hall has been monitoring the impact of the switch-off in Maldon and Uttlesford since 2007 where street lights were turned off for five hours from midnight.

As well as saving £1m a year, the council said the switch-off reduced energy consumption, carbon emissions and light pollution.

But this week county councillor Mike Danvers, who represents the Harlow North division, described the proposals as unacceptable and said he would be raising the issue at next week's Harlow Council meeting.

"It will make Harlow a much more dangerous place and cause much unnecessary anxiety and concern in the local community," he told the Star.

"I would urge people to write to Cllr Rodney Bass, who does not live in Harlow but will take the final decision to switch street lights off all over the town."

Harlow will be one of the last districts to be affected but consultations are now under way.

All councils and county councillors as well as the emergency services have been notified and invited to suggest areas that should be excluded from the scheme. Residents will also be given the chance to have their say.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon told the Star: "The council say they are doing this to save £1m a year to keep council tax down but clearly there will be some concerns from residents.

"I will be speaking to two of the relevant councillors and I have been reassured that if the district council and residents make a good case for areas of exemption, the council will look at that very seriously."

Town centres, key road junctions, remote footpaths and alleyways linking residential streets, will be exempt. Lighting for bus shelters, road signs and traffic bollards will also be unaffected.

Mr Halfon added: "I would urge every resident who has concerns to write to me individually and I will make the case for them.

"This is not a definitive thing; the county council is willing to make exemptions as long as Harlow Council makes the case and I am happy to make the case for local people."

Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride condemned the proposals. She said she was concerned a blackout could encourage criminal behaviour and have a detrimental effect on the town's night-time economy.

"The Government should carry out an urgent audit into the impact of these changes so that we can all be assured that the needs of the communities are being met and what seems like a short-term cut won't be a long-term cost to communities in Harlow and across the country," she said.

However, Acting Chief Inspector Alan Pitcher, of Harlow Police, said: "The experience in other parts of Essex has been that a reduction in street lighting has not led to any noticeable increase in crime.

"We will monitor with interest the consequences of any changes in the patterns of street lighting for any impact on both crime and people's fear of crime.

Paul Wadley, secretary of Harlow Neighbourhood Watch, said: "We clearly understand the need to save energy and

Consultations under way over council tax support

HARLOW Council is about to embark on a six-week consultation exercise to gauge the views of town residents on the way council tax support is allocated in the future.

The council has already adopted a means-tested Local Council Tax Support Scheme to replace Council Tax Benefit following a reduction in the level of Government funding.

With further funding reductions already announced by the Government, the council is now proposing to retain the current scheme in 2014/15 for working-age claimants and is asking residents for their views.

Councillor Tony Durcan, cabinet portfolio holder for resources and enterprise, said: "This April 3,800 residents began to pay something towards their council tax and we appreciate that this has been hard

Under the current scheme working-age households are required to pay at least 24 per cent of their council tax bill themselves. For an average Band C home the maximum charged this year is £330.66 or £6.36 per week.

Those who can work will be encouraged to do so by raising the level of earnings allowed before benefit payments are affected.

To focus support on those most in need, the maximum level of savings below which claimants can still apply for support will be £6,000.

There will be some limited financial support for those in "genuine" need who are struggling to pay.

Pensioners will be protected from any reduction to their benefit payments. The exclusion of pensioners from the scheme safeguards support for about 4,000 residents.

for some. By providing dedicated help and advice we have helped many of these residents find ways to pay towards their council tax.

"The funding that we have available to pay for council tax support is not going to increase and the money that we have to provide services is reducing so we are asking residents for their views on how our scheme should be funded.

"We propose to keep the scheme

the same so it is as fair as possible to the majority of people. Our scheme meets the requirement that the elderly are protected but does mean that people of working age pay something with the poorest families receiving some help. In response to cuts in Government funding the council is trying to provide the fairest scheme possible within the funding available."

At the end of the consultation period the feedback will be considered by the council's cabinet in November. A proposed final scheme for 2014/15 will then be considered and a scheme agreed by December 2013.

A consultation questionnaire can be completed at www.harlow.gov.uk/lcts. Paper copies can be collected from the Civic Centre or requested by calling Contact Harlow on 01279 446655.

Street lights to be switched off

the objectives behind the decision by Essex County Council to implement the scheme in Harlow.

"The reduction of street lighting may not work in favour of the burglar or those stealing from parked vehicles if Harlow residents will unite under a town-wide neighbourhood watch system that will share information and best practices with each other and our local Police, when the street lighting in neighbourhood areas is reduced or switched off during these times."

Cllr Bass, cabinet member for highways and transportation at Essex County Council, said: "This consultation period gives local councillors and the emergency services the opportunity to put forward areas which they believe meet the exemption criteria, and we will consider all responses received."

Residents can share their views by emailing partnightlighting@essexhighways.org by the consultation deadline of September 27.

Deadline looms for health centre plans

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TIME is running out for people to have their say on plans for a new health centre in Harlow.

A decision on the proposals for a 20,000 patient surgery, pharmacy and community health clinic in Abercrombie Way is expected to be made before the end of the year.

They are currently the subject of a public consultation exercise which ends on September 23.

The Harlow Health Centres Trust, is pushing for a replacement to the Lister Medical Centre at Staple Tyre.

Plans for the two-storey building, which were submitted by CAMM Architects, also feature a new crossover for vehicle access, a new car park, games area, landscaping and footpaths.

The building has been designed to allow easy access to consulting areas and to make the most of natural lighting and ventilation.

It would be located on a site across from Lister House and adjacent to the Great Parndon Community Association.

An HHCT spokeswoman said: "Decisions have been on-going for several years now because of the regeneration of the Staple Tyre area.

"We have been requested to redevelop Lister House and it was suggested we relocate to enable the local authority to properly regenerate the area."

The trust has been working with stakeholder doctors and dentists, West Essex PCT and NHS England for four years on developing the brief and design of the scheme.

Paul Young, of CAMM Architects, said: "The review of the provision of premises for community health centres such as Lister House has been challenging over the last few years.

"The decline in spending is now showing in all the buildings that are in the local surgeries. We believe this building will start a renewal of confidence in the provision of health buildings in the community."

Feedback from the consultation will be prepared for a report which will then be presented to a committee of councillors for decision.

the town's 'lost' featuresSIR, When the Water Gardens development took place, various existing features were lost.Harlow Council promised that new provision would be made for Clement Attlee Square and the six visitor coach parking places in Luther King Road.As this is the 50th anniversary of Martin Luther King's famous 'I have a dream' oration, it would be a fitting time to remember and commemorate him and his work.We are shortly to have a blue plaque in the town to commemorate our former MP, Winston Churchill (1935-45). Harlow New Town owes its existence to Clement Attlee and his 1945 Labour government and it is, therefore, appropriate to remember him.
So where is the square?The council says it is committed to encouraging tourism and the town has a lot to offer. I spoke recently to a coach operator who said he would gladly include Harlow in his programme of tours if town centre parking bays for coaches were reinstated.Surely this would be a valuable

August 22), of course we need trade unions
... and strong trade unions.Since the attack on trade union membership in the 1980s we have seen a massive rise in company profits and major changes to workers conditions. Many companies have abandoned their pension schemes for their workers. Many look to agency workers on zero hours contracts and attack their conditions of service.
Workers pay and conditions are under attack.But what do Tories like Tony Hall offer?
More of the same.Look where that has got us. An untrained low paid economy with companies trying to cut corners and at the same time turning in record profits. Tesco alone making over £2bn profit while shutting down a warehouse in Harlow and making 700 people redundant.The old adage states that if workers do not look after themselves no one else will.
Certainly not the Tories. They have the same attitude to an organised labour force as they did in the 19th century when they opposed legislation stopping children working only 10 hours a day.In their heart of hearts Cllr Hall and his party would like to return us all to when

Cllr Michael Danvers (Labour) Tunmeade, HarlowLet's stop knocking our wonderful health service*SIR, I have recently undergone major surgery at Princess Alexandra Hospital. It was my first stay in hospital since 1950 when I was eight.After the constant barrage of hospital horror stories from the media, I wondered what I was in for.In the event, the care and consideration
I received from everyone was second to none. I cannot speak too highly of the way that everyone from domestic to consultant and surgeon supported and cared for me.
Everyone in the High Dependency Unit was fantastic.What really impressed me were the follow-up support phone calls that I received from the enhanced recovery nurse after I had returned home. That really was the icing on the cake. A huge thank you to everyone at PAH.So please, let's have more good news stories about our wonderful NHS. We need to boost the morale of our carers instead of endlessly knocking them.John Young Paddock Mead, HarlowUse WWI centenary to learn the lessons of the past*SIR, What we now know as the First World War was sold at the time as the "war to end all wars" ("County given Lotto cash to fund WWI centenary project", Star, August 22).In fact it was a conflict between rival imperialisms, fomented by an arms race promoted by the rival military/industrial complexes of the day.

Four years and 16 million deaths later the

"peace" settlement laid the foundation for the Second World War in which the death toll was at least 40 million. Since 1945
there have been some 200 armed conflicts, small and large, with many more millions of victims.Is it not really time that the human race learned to settle its differences without periodically slaughtering one another, and squandering the planet's precious resources, both material and human, on the means to do so?Wars do not just happen. They are not the result of man's aggressive nature, although the widespread belief in this myth is one of the reasons why we have not yet managed to abolish them. War is organised armed conflict between rival sovereign or would-be sovereign groups.As the late Harry Patch - the last surviving WWI soldier - once said, war is nothing but organised murder. No side won WWI and we are still living (and dying) from the aftermath.The decision to go to war is made by leaders who are in a position to do so, not by ordinary people, individually aggressive or not. Those (mis)leaders can do so only if they have the means to wage war, the weapons and the trained personnel to use them, combined with the belief that they can win and a public that can be hoodwinked into supporting it.The 2014 centenary is an opportunity to learn the lessons of WWI and the rest of the past bloody century and promote an alternative vision. The only worthwhile purpose in "marking" this centenary would be if it contributed to achieving that aim.But as far as one can tell that is not remotely in the Government's mind. It is more concerned with sending yet more weapons to Syria, which can only result in exacerbating that horrendous conflict.
Nor will it be achieved by a "focus on the lives of Essex families, individuals and communities", as the ECC project proposes.My own personal suggestion for commemoration would be to put the words of Harry Patch on every war memorial. Other ideas on what Harlow can do to contribute to making a more peaceful world would be welcome.Frank Jackson, former co-chair, walk in safety (Letters, August 22).Any parking on any bit of pavement is likely to cause damage to both pavement and pedestrians.I was injured in a fall on a damaged have not fully recovered. I am an elderly widow living on my own and have had an extremely difficult time trying to cope with all the house requirements plus all my physical needs.It is possible that I may never regain full use of my arm and hand.This is a result of the lack of consideration by drivers who do not seem to know their actions could affect other people. When challenged as to why they park this way, more often than not you are met with a torrent of abuse.I fully realise that parking is a big problem but there seems to be a large

not owned by people running their own

Union calls off Kier strike threat over 'pay date' dispute

A UNION representing employees of council contractor Kier Harlow has called off the threat of industrial action after settling its dispute over plans to change the pay date of workers.

Kier said the move was designed to align the monthly payroll process across the entire group and insisted the company was committed to working with the unions.

But the Union of Construction and Allied Trades and Technicians balloted its members after claiming the company had failed to enter into "meaningful negotiations" over the proposals to change the date workers were paid from the 15th to the 28th of every month.

Three-quarters of UCATT members who took part in the ballot voted for strike action while 88 per cent voted to support industrial action short of strike action.

As well as workers in Harlow, UCATT balloted its members at North Tyneside, Stoke, Islington, Gosport and Southend.

The union now claims that as a result of the ballot the company has made a number of concessions to workers involving the offer of repayable loans.

Further consultation with union members took place at a series of mass meetings at which they voted to accept the new offer.

UCATT general secretary Steve

Murphy said: "Kier have seen sense and listened to the genuine concerns of our members."

"This dispute was entirely preventable. Through negotiations we have reached agreement which will result in no detriment to the workers concerned."

Councillor Rod Truan, deputy leader of Harlow Council, said: "We are pleased that both sides have arrived at a decision and that strike action has been avoided with Kier offering support to members of staff affected by the pay date changes."

"We look forward to continuing a productive and positive working relationship."

Radical changes needed in health service provision

THE chairman of the GP-led body responsible for health care provision in Harlow and Epping Forest has warned that "radical changes" are needed to services in order to meet the challenges of the future.

According to the West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group the number of people living with diseases could double over the next 20 years, more than 40 per cent of households could be living alone and in just the west Essex area the number of people aged over 80 is predicted to grow by 40 per cent by 2021.

As a result it is running a 'My Health, My Future, My Say' campaign giving residents the chance to help shape services over the next 10 years. Four focus groups meetings have already taken place to discuss the challenges and opportunities for the future.

WECCG chairman and Harlow GP Dr Rob Gerlis said: "We are very grateful to those who took the time and trouble to come along but this was just the start. There are lots more opportunities to get involved."

"Radical changes are needed to health and care services so that we can meet the very real challenges of the future. Some of these may be controversial and people may not agree with us. This is why we are asking everyone to join in the debate."

Four 'big debate' events will now be held at which local doctors and the other professionals will be leading discussions at the events and outlining some of ideas for the future.

The debate in Harlow will be held at Great Parndon Community Centre in Abercrombie Way on Tuesday, September 17 from 6.30-9pm. Places can be booked by emailing we.ccg@nhs.net or telephoning 01992 566140.

Protests over Islamic centre arson attack

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SUPPORTERS of Harlow Unite Against Fascism were joined by trade unionists and councillors in the town centre on Saturday for a 'day of action' following last week's attempt to burn down the Harlow Islamic Centre.

Labour parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride and several members of the town's faith groups also took part in the protest to speak out against racism.

They set up a stall in Broad Walk as a show of support for the town's Muslim community and to condemn the attack on the Paringdon Road centre.

A UAF spokesman said: "It was really good. We had 25 people turn up to help support the day and speak to shoppers. We had a really good response from a lot of people."

"We need to show that an attack on one of us is an attack on all of us, and the action day showed that a lot of people agreed with that."

Harlow UAF held a public meeting last Thursday in response to the arson attempt and to co-ordinate Saturday's day of action.

"The meeting was held to discuss the attack, what it meant and what we could do as a community," said the spokesman. "We had six EDL members outside the meeting but the police were there. We were not deterred and the meeting went ahead."

Ms Stride added: "It was fantastic to see people coming together on Saturday to make a stand for unity and diversity in Harlow."

"To celebrate the fact that such diversity enriches our community in the same week that we celebrated Martin Luther King's famous speech, it demonstrates there is still much progress to be made."

"The attack on the Harlow Islamic Centre was a despicable and disgraceful act. I am proud to stand by the Muslim community in Harlow, to support those who had their place of worship attacked."

"I visited the Harlow Islamic Centre last week to offer them my support personally. An attack on someone's place of worship is an attack on their freedom; we must stand together as a community to stop all attacks like this."

Kirstie makes a drama out of a crisis in Casualty

A YOUNG actress who appeared on millions of TV screens across the country when she appeared on Saturday's episode of the BBC hospital drama Casualty said she was pleased with her performance.

Kirstie Brough (21), of Moorfields, Harlow, was surrounded by family and friends as she watched the episode in which she played a teenage cancer patient who caused a road accident.

"I had all the family and friends around to watch it but I'll have to watch it by myself at some point," she said this week.

"I was so nervous and I'm quite critical of myself but I'm really pleased and my agent is happy. Hopefully once we have the footage it can be put on a show reel and be forwarded to casting directors."

The former Stewards Academy pupil, who also works in the Playhouse box office and at the Hobbycraft store at the Queensgate Centre, made her debut TV appearance in EastEnders playing a homeless girl and more recently was featured on E4's Phoneshop.

"It's been amazing so far and I hope I can one day act full-time," she said.

Ambulance trust may cut backroom jobs to improve patient care

AMBULANCE trust bosses have said they may be forced to make redundancies among backroom staff in order to improve frontline services.

The East of England Ambulance Trust is looking to make savings of £20m which will then be invested in more ambulances and paramedics.

The consultation period is about to start, with a decision about job losses being made by November.

Interim chief executive Andrew Morgan said: "We are trying to move money from one part of the organisation - the support functions - into direct frontline patient care.

"We need more ambulances on the road and to do that we need to employ more paramedics, clinicians or care assistants. That's where the money is going to go."

He added: "There's always a risk that we may have to go down the compulsory redundancy route but I'd like to avoid that."

Health minister Norman Lamb, whose own Norfolk constituency is covered by the trust, said it was critical to have investment in frontline services.

"If the organisation is too fat at the management level and at the administrative level, then that has to be addressed," he said.

"The principle is clear: the trust has to go about it in a proper way - it has to fully consult staff."

Gary Aplin, Unison's branch secretary for the EEAS, said any redundancies would be unwelcome, adding: "Morale level, with the uncertainty that this is obviously going to throw up, is going to degrade further."

'Threat to kill' texts were a cry for help, court told

Nightwalk Noel is carrots champ

PARALYMPIC athlete and five times gold medallist Noel Thatcher has been named as the "face" of Carrots NightWalk 2013 - the main event of National Eye Health Week.

Noel, who lives in Harlow and works at physiotherapy and sports clinic in Buckhurst Hill, is visually impaired. He was born with optic atrophy, a mixture of problems with the retinal cells and optic nerves.

He represented the UK at six Paralympic Games between 1984 and 2004, setting world records at the Barcelona and Sydney games in 1992 and 2000. In 1997 he was awarded an MBE.

He is now an ambassador for British Blind Sport, a charity which provides sport and recreation for blind and partially sighted children and adults throughout the UK.

Noel will be taking part in the six-mile Nightwalk in London on Friday, September 20. It is being organised by Fight for Sight, the main UK charity dedicated to funding eye research to prevent sight loss and treat eye disease.

"I wanted to support Fight for Sight and Carrots NightWalk as I believe that research will eventually prevent sight loss," he said. "I know first-hand the difficulties that sight loss can cause and it would be great for there to be a future that everyone can see."

To register to take part in the Carrots NightWalk visit www.fightforsight.org.uk/carrots or call 0207 264 3900.

A MAN suffering from a personality disorder which makes him unable to control things he says has been jailed for 15 months for threatening to kill his former partner and her new husband.

Peter Hays, 31, of Sycamore Field, Harlow, was convicted at Chelmsford Crown Court of making the threats in text messages sent to his mother in April.

He claimed he had no intention of carrying out the threat but made it so his mother Brenda - who had kept up a relationship with her grandchildren and his ex partner - would feel some of his pain.

Over a two-hour period Hays sent texts to his mother saying: "I made my mind up I will kill them, then I will kill myself. I will kill her and him. I am not  about it. I cannot go on no more I have got to do this."

He also sent texts saying: "We will die tonight" and "Try and get the kids out of her home tonight. I don't want them to see what I am going to do." In a chilling final text Hays wrote: "Got 38mm and it's full up."

His mother told the court she alerted police because although she generally ignored his ranting she felt different about the tone of the messages.

"When he mentioned about getting the girls out of the house and the final one about a 38mm then I did panic," said Mrs Hays. "I felt the threats could have been real on that day."

COURT REPORTER

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

Prosecutor Jon Livingstone said: "Even though Brenda Hays accepts her son is unpredictable and has a temper and is rather mouthy, this was a different level from anything ever uttered by him before and that was why she took the step to phone police. She was worried these threats would be put into operation."

Hays told police he suffered from a medical condition which meant he could not always control what he said.

"I don't mean what I say. I got so angry. She [his mother] seems to be on my ex's side more than mine. I don't want her not to see the children but I am still hurt."

He said he did not expect his mother to take the threats seriously but hoped she would call police about his "cry for help" so he could get help at a hospital.

The court heard Hay and his former partner separated in 2009 after being together for six years. He had two previous convictions for assaulting her in 2010 and 2012.

The prosecution said that when officers went to arrest Hays he threatened to throw a kettle over them and said he had barricaded his door.

Kevin Walls, representing Hay, said in mitigation his client could not get legal aid or afford to pay himself to pursue proceedings over access to his children.

Memory walk for Alzheimers charity

A GROUP OF Harlow residents have joined forces to hold a Memory Walk in aid of the Alzheimers Society.

Angela Canham (51), of Bynhams, was inspired to organise this weekend's 5km fundraiser after her mother was diagnosed with the disease.

Co-organiser Lisa Gould (25), of The Hides, said: "Angela's mother is a long-time sufferer of Alzheimers. She wanted to hold the Memory Walk in Harlow, support the charity and raise money."

The Alzheimers Society, a charity which works to improve services and information about dementia, is hosting Memory Walks throughout the country. "We are charging a £5 registration fee just so that we can make sure to raise as much money as possible," said Lisa.

"There will be lots going on including a jazzercise warm-up, face-painting and the Rainbow Services Young Bus

"The Alzheimers Society has been really helpful. We're hoping it'll be a huge success and we can raise as much money as possible."

The walk takes place on Sunday. Registration opens at 10am and the walk will set off from the Town Park Bandstand at 11am. To join, email help-supportus@hotmail.co.uk.

They must be Nuts! 'Bootcamp' team's gruelling challenge

A BOOTCAMP instructor and trainer decided to take on a military assault course to raise money for charity after her father suffered a serious stroke - and roped in almost 50 people to join her.

Kate Stanley (31), of Challinor, Harlow, has already completed a Nuts Challenge - a gruelling assault course where participants must sign a waiver which outlines the risk of injury, broken bones, and hypothermia - in April and decided to take on the course again to raise money for the Stroke Association after her father suffered a stroke last year.

Kate, who owns and runs Stanley4Fitness with her husband Gary, said: "I wanted to raise money for the Stroke Association as my father had a really serious stroke last year. It left him completely disabled and he needs round-the-clock care now. The Stroke Association really helped me and my mum with his care."

"As I run the bootcamp I thought it would be an amazing experience for our bootcampers and provide them with a big challenge."

The mother-of-two added: "There were 48 of us taking part. Some are raising money for the Stroke Association, others for St Clare Hospice. We have a group of Jerrounds teachers who come to bootcamp who are fundraising for Cancer Research."

"It was absolutely amazing, and I'm so proud of everyone. It was great."

Kate has already reached her fundraising target of £1,500 but is hoping to raise even more for the charity.

"The more money, the better. Anything we can get on top of what we have already received is a huge bonus," she said.

"This is just the beginning and the first of many extreme fundraisers for us."

Recruitment day for volunteering

A VOLUNTARY project is hosting a recruitment day at which local groups will be available to talk about opportunities for those keen to lend a hand.

Volunteer Centre Harlow, which promotes and supports volunteering in Harlow and the surrounding areas, will be holding the event at Harlow Central Library.

Visitors will be able to find out what is involved in volunteering and sign up to any of the various community groups within the town which are looking for helpers.

The recruitment day will be held from 10am-3pm on Tuesday (September 10). For more information, contact Della Nash on (01279) 308310.

Business to hold Macmillan event

A HARLOW business is calling on all bakers and cake-lovers to help them in a national fundraiser to host a coffee morning in aid of Macmillan Cancer Support later this month.

Mosaic Recruitment, based in East Road, Harlow, will be hosting a Macmillan coffee morning on September 27 and will also be running a Best Victoria Sandwich and Best Cupcake competition on the day.

Operations director, Susan Curran, who is organising the event, said: "We want to get local people baking cakes and then we are going to sell them throughout the day to raise as much money as possible for Macmillan Cancer Support."

"We'll also be holding competitions which anyone can enter. The judging will take place during the coffee morning, with the entries then sold off to raise more money."

To find out more, email Susan at susan.curran@mosaic-recruitment.com.

Lottery winners

THE winner of the £1,000 first prize in the St Clare Hospice lottery drawn on Friday, August 30 is the holder of ticket number 262781. The winner lives in Harlow.

The second prize of £100 was won by ticket holder 736176, who lives in Epping.

CORRECTION

IN an article about a family fun day in last week's Community News, we incorrectly stated that organiser Nikki Keyte had been diagnosed with - and was now recovering from - a brain tumour.

In fact Ms Keyte was diagnosed with benign inter-cranial hypertension (BIH) - high pressure of the brain.

We apologise for the error in the article and any upset this may have caused Ms Keyte and her family.

HUNDREDS of people flocked to Pets' Corner in Harlow Town Park on Sunday for a fun day.

Local councillors including council chairman Linda Pailing sat in the stocks and were pelted with wet sponges to raise money for the popular attraction.

The highlight of the day, which was organised by the Friends of Pets' Corner, was the annual dog show which drew almost 200 entries from across the town and beyond.

Scooping the 'best in show' prize, and taking home the Rod Wood Memorial Trophy, was 83-year-old Dennis Benson with his dog Shadow.

Volunteer Bill Weston, who has been helping at the attraction for 39 years, encouraged youngsters to make birthday cards for pig Duchess, who was celebrating her ninth birthday.

Other attractions included bouncy castles and tractor rides.

Friends of Pets' Corner chair Asela Elmorsy said: "A great day was had by all thanks to all our vets, staff, volunteers and local councillors."

More than £2,000 was raised for the popular attraction.

WIN Tickets to see and meet Postman Pat at the Playhouse

 Enter this competition at harlowstar.co.uk/Whats-On-Leisure

IT'S showtime for everyone's favourite postman. Postman Pat is coming to Harlow Playhouse later this month and we have two family tickets (two adults & two children) to give away.

We have teamed up with Classic Media and Premier Stage Productions to give you the chance to see the noon performance of Pat's brand new adventure on Saturday, September 28 and then meet him after the show.

It's the day of the talent show and there is much excitement in Greendale. All the invitations have been delivered and it's now up to the villagers to come up with something that will get the vote of approval from Sebastian Sly, the famous judge coming to cast his eye over proceedings. Ted Glen has the idea to get the karaoke machine dusted off and fixed up, but when Amy suggests solar panels would be more eco-friendly, poor Ted's confusion begins. Postman Pat sets off on a mission to deliver the equipment needed, but a few mishaps along the way put the whole talent show in jeopardy.

Starring alongside Postman Pat, Ted Glen and Amy will be Mrs Goggins, Ajay and, of course, Pat's trusted sidekick Jess, the Black and White Cat. With plenty of audience participation and new songs, Postman Pat Live! It's Showtime offers lots of fun and excitement for the whole family.

To enter this great competition visit www.harlowstar.co.uk/Whats-On-Leisure and follow the entry instructions. The closing date for entries is noon on Tuesday, September 10.

Time to apply for secondary school places

PARENTS and carers of children due to start secondary school in September next year are being advised the application process is now under way.

Education chiefs at Essex County Council say the process to apply for a Year 7 place runs until October 31.

Applications can be submitted via the county council's website at www.essex.gov.uk/ admissions.

School information, Ofsted reports, admissions criteria and catchment areas are also available.

County councillor Ray Gooding, cabinet member for education and lifelong learning, said: "Applying for the right schools for your child is an important decision and I would urge parents to use the tools available to ensure they make an informed application."

"Although we are able to provide most families with their preferred school, schools can become oversubscribed so it is very important for parents to use all six preferences."

A county council spokesman said it was vital to apply on time, adding: "We recommend that parents use all their preferences and list their local school as one of their preferences. Parents should also carefully consider the admissions criteria of each school for which they wish to apply."

Agency boss Tina snaps up a studio

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A YOUNG entrepreneur is developing her career by moving from working at home to opening a new photography studio and PR agency in the town centre.

Tina Higginson (26), pictured right, of Edinburgh Gate, Harlow, started Flirt PR four years ago after a successful modeling career.

"I used to model and I got so much work that I had to give it away to friends," she said. "I then started charging a 20 per cent commission and it just grew from there."

"I started Flirt four years ago and I've been working from home during that time. I decided I wanted to open up either a shop or a studio and I thought a studio would better meet our needs."

As well as providing studio space for single, family and pet portraits, Flirt also serves as a press and model agency.

"What makes us different to our competitors is that we can offer the whole package here. If you're signed up to our model agency then you're portfolio pictures can be shot at the studio."

"We also write and sell people's real-life stories that are published in a lot of magazines and newspapers. So if somebody has a story that they think a publication would be interested in, they can come to us and we can sell it on for them."

Flirt Studios, based in West Walk, has only been open in the town for a month but business is already looking up.

"Things are going well but a lot of our customers come from further afield and I'd love to have more Harlow locals involved with Flirt," said Tina.

"People are always welcome to pop in or give us a call to find out a little bit more about our photography packages and our studio space or anything else."

For more information, visit www.flirt-studios.com or www.flirt-pr.com or call (01279) 897029.

The 'write' way to celebrate

A HARLOW-based manufacturer of promotional pens has celebrated its 30th anniversary.

Harlow Council chair Linda Pailing was invited to the premises of Senator, in Stadium Way, to mark the occasion and to launch the company's third generation Xtreme Branding machine - designed to meet the demand for the company's full colour, full wrap branding on its promotional pens.

A senator spokeswoman said: "As part of our 30th birthday celebrations we hosted an afternoon of fun and games for employees, topped off with a delicious barbecue and entertainment provided by local magician Richard Griffin.

"As we embark on our 31st year, we will continue to keep an eye on developments we can utilise to enhance our offerings. We are currently developing new products and service initiatives to be launched in 2014, so watch this space!"

Senator, has also joined over 600 promotional merchandise suppliers to get involved in the first national Promotional Products Week which starts on September 16.

Warning over 'fake' goods

CONCERNs over counterfeit chocolate bars have prompted trading standards officers at Essex County Council to remind businesses of the importance of buying goods from reputable sources.

The warning comes after the unit investigated reports that the chocolate on sale at an unnamed shop in Essex were labelled as milk chocolate and white chocolate Wonka Bars which the manufacturer stopped making three years ago.

Cllr Roger Walters, cabinet member for trading standards at Essex County Council, said: "Counterfeit food is often of substandard quality and there may be no way of knowing if there is any problems with it especially when the seller cannot identify the supplier."

Pensions seminar

HARLOW & District Chamber of Commerce will be hosting a seminar to help businesses learn more about the compulsory workplace pension.

Gavin Johnson, director of SP Financial Management, will be discussing the obligations on companies and the requirements needed of them to meet their legal obligations and avoid fines.

He said: "A lot of businesses are unaware of this requirement, so this seminar will provide all the information they need to know."

The seminar will be held at The Enterprise Hub in Edinburgh Way, Harlow, on September 26 from 6-7.15pm.

MY VIEW FROM WESTMINSTER

By Robert Halfon
MP for Harlow

The Right to Buy

Last year I founded the website www.righttobuyharlow.com with the intention of giving advice to residents who want to purchase their council house with Government discounts of up to £75,000. We have had some very promising results: in the past year council house sales have increased by 321 per cent.

I am glad that 70 families in Harlow have been helped to start the process to buy their own homes but council house sales also mean new homes for those on the waiting list.

Unlike before when money raised by council house sales was taken away by Gordon Brown for the Treasury to spend elsewhere in the country, the Conservative-led coalition has guaranteed that monies raised will be spent on social housing in Harlow.

On top of this there is the New Homes Bonus which sees the council given finance by the Government every time a new home is built. Harlow Council can spend the money how they see fit and hundreds of thousands of pounds have come into council coffers from this bonus.

Parking charges

Many residents have contacted me about Harlow Council's decision to raise car parking charges across the town.

This comes after the council increased council tax (despite a grant from central Government allowing for a freeze) and allowed for an increase in councillors' allowances.

I believe it is wrong to hit hard-working residents and our local businesses in this way, especially in difficult economic times. I will continue to oppose this new local tax on motorists and hope the council reconsider.

Islamic centre arson

The Harlow Islamic Centre is a place of peace and an important part of our community. The congregation were instrumental in helping Harlow come together after the Shakoor family tragedy.

That is why I called the arsonists who attacked HIC scum of the earth. Every faith should have the right to worship in peace without fear of threats and persecution.

Following my reaction to what occurred, I have been shocked to receive hate mail at my home, nasty emails and comments on Twitter including one which called me 'scum' and another a 'Muslim groveler'.

One said they would never vote for me. Well my response to that is I am glad. I don't want those kinds of people with those kinds of views supporting my party.

As an MP it is my duty to have a thick skin, but this kind of trash shows that racism is all too alive and unwell. We all have a duty to confront it.

The Syrian crisis

Some months ago I wrote in the Star about visiting Auschwitz. One of the most harrowing things to see were the places where Jews were gassed with chemicals.

Tragically, the same thing is now happening in Syria with 1,400 killed by the chemical Sarin in the past month.

Whilst I do not support a 'Tony Blair' style Iraqi ground invasion, I passionately believe that the free world has a moral duty to take out the regime's chemical weapons capability as far as possible to avoid even further chemical weapons atrocities.

Of course it won't be easy - 120,000 citizens have died already because of President Assad. But that does not mean the world should just sit on its hands.

Following the Parliamentary vote the PM says GB won't be militarily involved. I hope that we can help in other ways whether it is supplying intelligence or humanitarian support.

All that it takes for evil to flourish is for good men to do nothing.

Fur he's a jolly good (feline) fellow

He may look like he needs a haircut but Colonel Meow has just won a place in the Guinness Book of Records for being the cat with the longest fur on the planet.

The two-year-old puss is a Himalayan-Persian cross and at its longest his fur reaches 22.97cm.

Colonel Meow lives in California with his owners, Anne Marie Avey and Eric Rosario.

Anne Marie said: "We already knew that he was the best cat in the world, but to be recognised in the Guinness World Records book takes it to the next level."

Colonel Meow even has his own website, Facebook page and a YouTube channel that has racked up over two million views.

However, there are problems owning the world's furriest cat, including the fact that he needs to be brushed two-three times a week.

"Literally everything in the house has hair on it, including us," said Anne-Marie. "I feel like I'm always vacuuming."

Civility takes back seat in a comedy of manners

THE pressure is on as Harlow Theatre Company prepares for tonight's opening performance of the award-winning play God of Carnage.

Tension and pressure are the on-going themes throughout this intimate but at times bitter comedy which sees four parents come together in an attempt to resolve a falling out between their 11-year-old sons.

Alain (played by Clive Weatherley) and Annette (Wendy Grant) arrange a meeting with Veronique (Liz Carter) and her husband Michel (Steve Hannan) one evening after their sons have a fight. But what starts out as a civil get-together between four adults quickly descends into chaos and acrimony.

Director Sharon Wilson said: "I think a lot of audience members will understand the need to be polite and civil in certain situations.

"This shows what happens when that mask of civility slips away and the facade and act of acting a 'proper' way gets stripped back. I think everyone can relate to that."

"It's a very active piece and it's a great show. There's a lot of action and I think audiences will enjoy it."

The God of Carnage was originally written in French by Yasmina Reza. It has no interval in order to propel audience members into the living room setting where the action takes place.

"It's a very intimate play so there are no intervals," said Sharon.

"It's a short play so the action can continue as it would if it was really happening."

>> The God of Carnage opens at the Victoria Hall Theatre in Old Harlow tonight (September 5) and runs until Saturday, with performances starting at 8pm. Tickets are available from www.ticketsource.co.uk/harlowtheatrecompany or by calling 0844 8700 887. If the show is not sold out, tickets will also be available on the door.

Couple's card characters brought to book

A HARLOW couple have published their first children's book featuring characters they drew for Christmas and birthday cards.

Steven Impey (23) and Kiri Henday (21), both of Coalport Close, worked on The Mandertales - Steven writing the story and Kiri providing the illustrations.

The book, Mandertales in Adventure Awaits, tells the story of the Manders - tall blue fur-covered creatures who live on the island of Manderville - and the Mons, small pink creatures residing on Mon Island.

It begins with the Mander discovering a mysterious creature which has been washed ashore, leading the rest of the Manders to set sail in search of the creature's home.

"The Manders and Mons began life as nicknames for me and Steven," said Kiri. "Steven was Mander and I was Mon and from there we decided to develop our alter-egos as characters."

"We made cards for each other for Christmas or birthdays. Then, when Steven was looking for a children's book for his niece he said we should develop the characters and turn it into a full blown series of illustrated children's books because the majority of children's book were dumbed down and poorly illustrated.

"While we were developing the idea we decided we really wanted to create a book which was non-gender specific and appealed to both boys and girls."

Kiri and Steven have already started work on the second book in the Mandertales and have planned an entire series.

"We have started work on a second volume called Mandernapped! which is about the Manders being kidnapped by a shadowy creature," said Kiri.

"The first volume is really about bringing the characters together and establishing their relationships, roles and quirks. It helps to set up the world of Mandertales and foreshadows events of later books.

"We're also hoping to do some shorts which we can put on YouTube and the website, so keep an eye out."

>> Mandertales in Adventure Awaits is available now for the Kindle and iPad on Amazon and will be available to buy in stores next year.

Forcing bulbs for a splash of colour in festive season

BARELY have you started to plant your spring-flowering bulbs, and it's already time to think about the winter and how to replicate these blooms indoors, without spending a fortune.

The answer is to 'force' bulbs into flower, that is give them assistance to bloom far earlier indoors than they would normally outside.

Garden centres should now be stocking up on bulbs which are sold specifically for forcing, which may include fragrant hyacinths, large-flowered crocus, hippocastrums, miniature daffodils and a few tulips, which should be marked 'prepared' in the shop.

By growing bulbs indoors, in a warmer atmosphere than they are accustomed to in the garden, for all or part of their growing season, they'll grow more quickly and flower earlier than they would otherwise. However, if you bring them on too quickly, they may fail.

You can use any type of pot because indoor bulbs can manage without drainage as they are being grown for such a short time, provided the container holds enough compost to accommodate the bulbs. It's worth spreading a layer of gravel at the bottom of the pot to help drainage.

For best results go for bulb fibre when growing bulbs in containers with no drainage, as it has plenty of air space and often contains added charcoal which keeps the compost fresh, even if it becomes too moist. Alternatively, you can use multi-purpose compost.

Prepared hyacinths are the most popular bulbs for forcing and generally go on sale at the beginning of September, after being given a couple of weeks of cold treatment to make them think they've gone through winter.

GARDENING TIPS

by Hannah Stephenson

Whatever you do, don't leave 'prepared' bulbs for a few weeks in a warm environment before planting, or they will lose the cold effect they were given initially. Instead, store them in a cool, dark place and plant them by the middle of September if you want them to flower by Christmas.

For the best effect, plant bulbs of the same colour together. They should be planted close together on top of a depth of at least 6cm of compost, so they are not quite touching one another. Then fill the bowl to just below the rim with compost, so their growing tips are just sticking out above the surface. Don't firm the bulb fibre down or it may hinder the root system establishing quickly. Make sure you don't overwater them, just water the compost lightly.

Place the container in a cool, dark place such as the shed or a closed cupboard in a cold room for 10-14 weeks, to encourage the flowering stems to develop before the leaves. It also enables the root system to become well-established. If the bulb fibre becomes dry at any time, water carefully between the bulbs.

Don't hurry them because insufficient time in the dark will result in stunted flowers or failure. When the leaf shoots are around 1-2in (4-5cm) high, move the container into a cool, light room.

The flower buds which you can see between the tips of the leaves should just be starting to show signs of colour. If you remove the bulbs too early the leaves will grow too quickly and will obscure the flowers.

If you want to delay flowering, put the bulbs outside in a sheltered position so the flowers develop more slowly, then move them inside, but not near a radiator.

Paperwhite narcissi and other dwarf narcissi may be given a cold preparation prior to sale and should be stored in a cold, dark place and then planted every couple of weeks from mid-September onwards to give you a succession of blooms from November to January. All other narcissi apart from paperwhites should have around 17 weeks of cold before being brought indoors to flower, planting them as you would hyacinths.

Diesel-powered romp goes back to basics

certificate 15, 1h59m

THE third film in the Riddick series, which began in 2000 with the muscular sci-fi thriller Pitch Black, is the most dramatically unsatisfying chapter of the ongoing saga.

Made for a fraction of the cost of the overblown 2004 sequel The Chronicles Of Riddick, this new instalment pares back the pyrotechnics and focuses on the lead character as he adjusts to hazardous new surroundings.

Vin Diesel reprises his role as the visually impaired zulu warlock with unabashed gusto, flinging himself into the various action sequences that director David Twohy uses to punctuate the flaccid storyline.

As the movie starts Riddick has been left for dead on a sun-scorched planet which seems to be lifeless. However, the mercenary quickly discovers that there is alien life on this outpost and he cannot batte these predators forever.

His only hope is to activate an emergency beacon and steal aboard a rescue ship. But the beacon alerts bounty hunters to his position and they descend on the planet determined to kill him and collect their fee.

Santana (Jordi Molla) and his men are the first to answer the distress signal and they set up sensors around their craft to track Riddick's movements.

A rival squad led by Boss Johns (Matt Nable) and his sassy sidekick Dahl (Katee Sackhoff) arrive next but they have a slightly different agenda for wanting to track down Riddick.

Santana tries to assert his authority over Boss Johns but infighting between the bounty hunters allows Riddick time to sneak up on his hunters.

Time is of the essence because a deadly storm is coming that will sweep across the surface of the planet, killing everyone in its path.

Riddick doesn't advance the central character's storyline at all and the two hours drag. Diesel can growl Twohy's dialogue in his sleep and since his character wears darkened goggles for sections of the film, perhaps he does just that considering the emotion in his delivery.

Supporting cast inhabit their unwritten roles with sweat-drenched purpose while special effects vary wildly in quality: some digital characters don't meld seamlessly with live action backgrounds.

From beginning to end, Twohy's film is riddickulous but fans of earlier films will probably love every desperate grunt and groan.

certificate 12A, 1h43m

IN this bittersweet coming-of-age story that strikes perfect balance between laughter and tears, first-time directors Nat Faxon and Jim Rash have fashioned a near perfect portrait of adolescent angst that eschews mawkish sentimentality yet still manages to tug the heartstrings with aplomb.

Fourteen-year-old Duncan (Liam James) wanted to spend the summer vacation with his father in San Diego but instead, he's being forced to tolerate a holiday on the East Coast with his mother Pam (Toni Collette), her new boyfriend Trent (Steve Carell) and Trent's tearaway teenage daughter Steph (Zoe Levin), who doesn't want to be lumbered with a socially awkward misfit like Duncan when she could be sunbathing with her gal pals.

Feeling desperately alone in Trent's beach house, Duncan ventures to a nearby Water Wizz theme park where the wise-cracking owner Owen (Sam Rockwell) takes pity on the miserable teenager and hires him for the summer.

Keeping the job secret from his mother, Duncan gains confidence under hisreckless mentor who only has eyes for his sassy employee, Caitlin (Maya Rudolph). Eventually, the lad musters the courage to strike up a conversation with Susanna (AnnaSophia Robb), who lives in a neighbouring beach house with her boozy and indiscreet mother Betty (Allison Janney).

Meanwhile, Pam's relationship with Trent shows signs of wear and tear, exacerbated by the continued presence of his vivacious friend Joan (Amanda Peet) and her clueless partner, Kip (Rob Corddry).

The Way Way Back is a delight. Faxon and Rash's first feature navigates a haphazard path through Duncan's growing pains with tenderness and affection. The script spares the characters few blushes as they seek the tiniest glimmers of self-fulfilment.

James delivers an impressive, emotionally raw performance and he is the perfect foil for Rockwell's wise-cracking man-child. Janney is a hoot as the mother from hell, who has no concept of personal boundaries or social graces when the liquor is flowing.

Capricorn 22 Dec. - 20 Jan.
Mercury's move into your career zone is perfect for researching new options, talking to key people and for interviews or important meetings. However, tension may build between you and another, which could result in a stand-off later on. Try to diffuse the matter sooner rather than later. Your social life can also perk up and bring different options for fun. Call for more news...

Aquarius 21 Jan - 19 Feb.
It's a mixed kind of week, and may need careful handling, especially early on when frustrating circumstances could get to you - particularly at work. However, Mercury's move into Libra may help you to find a compromise as a way to negotiate. Later, a friend may have a brilliant idea which could be ingenious, and really grab your imagination. Pisces 20 Feb. - 20 March
You may need to be flexible this week, as there could be a few delays or obstacles to overcome before you can move ahead. Yet, once Venus moves into Scorpio midweek, you may be buoyed up by an offer that could encourage you to try something quite enticing. Hang onto your hat over the weekend, as an exciting offer may come your way. Call for more news and advice...

Cottage-style home with two bedrooms

coverproperty

Location Church Crescent, Sawbridgeworth

Category Two-bedroom cottage

Additional For sale with no onward chain

Guide price £270,000

Agent Mackay Property Agents, The Old Barn, 2a The Square, Sawbridgeworth. Telephone (01279) 600567

THIS attractive detached flint home in Church Crescent, Sawbridgeworth, is a short walk from the town centre and train station.

This type of cottage-style home rarely comes on to the open market and it is for sale with no onward chain.

A hallway leads into a large open plan sitting room/dining room. There are stairs to the first floor within the dining room.

Wooden flooring in the sitting room and large windows add to this home's feeling of light and space and the décor is stylishly neutral.

Also on the ground floor is a large modern kitchen/diner, cloakroom and one of the two bedrooms.

The modern kitchen/diner overlooks the rear of the property and features an attractive range of light wood wall and base units with contrasting work surfaces and built-in appliances.

Upstairs on the first floor there is a large double bedroom and a generous size, modern luxury bathroom with white suite.

There is a good size front garden with gated side access to the rear garden which features a patio area - ideal for entertaining and al fresco dining.

Mackay Property Agents in Sawbridgeworth have full details on (01279) 600567.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

WHEN moving house it's often a great time to have a clear out. Don't be tempted to drag the dusty old contents of your attic from one property to the next.

If you didn't take the old records out of their box for the 15 years you lived at your old house, the chances are you won't need them in your new home either.

If you're a hoarder you're not alone. Some nine out of 10 Brits have clutter stashed away in their attic worth up to £1,000.

According to research from Gumtree.com, over half of adults confess to not knowing the value of their clutter but in Britain we have been sitting on household items worth an incredible £5.7m for almost 10 years.

The most frequently stashed items are books (51 per cent) and shoes (50 per cent) but it seems we can't bear to give away old VHS and cassette tapes.

Gumtree has discovered there is something of a gender divide when it comes to clutter, too. Women feel guilty about their hoard, holding on to unwanted gifts while men are more nostalgic about getting rid of their belongings (which explains Mr Waples' tatty old rucksack from his gap year).

The research of 2,000 Brits was carried out to mark the launch of Gumtree's Declutter campaign. Clearing out clutter would clearly be beneficial as 60 per cent of us admit it causes stress.

House moving is stressful enough - if you're moving home this summer tackle the clutter!

Family home for £239,995

THIS end-of-terrace home is in Elwood at Church Langley.

There are three good sized bedrooms, a ground floor cloakroom, lounge, kitchen/diner and a conservatory. The kitchen has a double glazed window to the rear aspect and opens into a conservatory.

The rear garden is mostly laid to decking, with patio area, shrub and mature tree borders and a wooden panelled shed.

Contact Geoffrey Matthew Estates on (01279) 444988 to arrange a viewing.

Guide price of £725,000

BUMBLES is a spacious and beautifully presented detached family home in a prime location at Old Harlow.

This five-bedroom property includes three reception rooms, a ground floor cloakroom, conservatory, kitchen/breakfast room with utility room and two bathroom/shower rooms. There is also a double garage and rear garden with a detached music studio, summerhouse and a barbecue area.

Call Haart of Harlow on (01279) 443311 for further details.

On the market for £799,950

STEEPED in history, High House is an impressive Grade II listed house in Old Harlow just a few hundred yards from open countryside.

Originally two cottages, all the beams and wooden features in the old part of the house have been sandblasted to the natural colour of oak and pine.

An extension was completed in 2004 to provide additional living space.

The property now has five/six bedrooms and it is possible to have an annexe and guest suite within the layout.

Call Howick & Brooker on (01279) 418888 for full details.

Cul-de-sac location for £399,950

LOCATED in the popular cul-de-sac of Mayfield Close, this detached family home is just a short walk from Old Harlow's shops and train station.

There are four bedrooms, a large open plan living/dining room, second reception room, kitchen with utility and a ground floor cloakroom.

Outside there is a sunny south-westerly facing garden, a garage and parking space. There is also scope for further extension if required.

Call Wright and Co on (01279) 600400 for details.

Beware Of Over Valuation, It Can Spoil Your Wealth!
And the opportunity of moving home

A big worry of mine is the gullibility of many home owners who get sucked into the same old trap, every time the market shows sign of recovery, agents bribing them with promises of unrealistic values which eventually result in disappointment and sometimes, a waste of many hundreds of pounds in costs without recourse.

One lunatic agent from outside of Harlow put a price on a Church Langley house for well over £100,000! Total madness the man should be locked up!

Now we have a very confused family not knowing what to do or who to believe.

Sad thing is, this happens every time we come out of a property slump, start to enjoy a firmer better market place then it goes crazy for a while with silly prices being asked, then back to normal but sadly with many people hurt and let down by so called professionals who should know better, but do they care?

Probably not.

EDUCATION 2013

Excellence all round at Howe Green

NOW in its 26th year, Howe Green House School at Great Hallingbury continues to go from strength to strength.

Following inspection in November 2011 by the Independent Schools Inspectorate (ISI), the school – for children from kindergarten age up to Year 6 – was thrilled to be awarded 'excellent' in every category.

A proactive governing board works with headmaster Graham Gorton to ensure Howe Green House continues to be at the forefront of education.

A wonderful new purpose-built junior facility known as The Cedar Wall Building was opened earlier this year.

Works to convert the old junior building mean that a new and much larger ICT suite and library will be ready for the start of the new academic year.

Mr Gorton said: "This is an exciting new phase for our school as the new teaching areas further enhance the provision whilst still retaining small classes [the maximum size is 20 pupils] with the family at the heart of the school's community."

Exemplary pastoral care in a parkland setting

At St Joseph's In The Park, children thrive and are happy and nurtured in a beautiful setting supported by outstanding pastoral care.

This principle has established the school's unique and widely recognised ethos for fostering academic, creative and physical potential in every child, encouraging both individuality and a sense of place within the school family and the wider world.

The value that is placed on tradition in manners and behaviour, as well as the pursuit of excellence and personal responsibility, provides a firm foundation for pupils which serves them well as they transition to senior school and beyond.

St Joseph's In The Park's environment is unique. Only a short distance from Hertford yet set in secluded parkland, the school is idyllic, safe and secure.

Its buildings have been tastefully modernised to accommodate new facilities for music, art, DT and ICT, and the extensive woodland is the site of the exceptional Forest School programme.

The school has a creative approach to the curriculum both inside and outside the classroom and a growing reputation for innovative approaches to environmental education and use of technology in learning.

As a consequence, children make excellent progress and enjoy much scholarship success. The school is very proud of the children's achievements, and you are welcome to visit any time you wish to see the school for yourself.

Something for everyone at Epping's Coopersale Hall

COOPERSALE Hall School is Epping's leading independent preparatory school for girls and boys from two-and-a-half to 11 years of age.

With excellent results at 11+ for children entering selective senior schools, the small class sizes provide a personalised education and a friendly, family-oriented and nurturing environment.

Only two minutes from Epping station, Coopersale Hall is ideally situated in rolling fields, with excellent facilities for all ages.

In addition to the academic subjects, there are more than 40 before- and after-school clubs and activities. There is something for everyone – from languages to ball sports, fencing, golf, karate and yoga as well as a full range of performing arts with music, dance and drama.

Following a rigorous ISI inspection visit, the school has been given an excellent report full of praise about the all-round education provided for the children.

Coopersale Hall was established in 1989 and has 275 pupils.

Before- and after-school care is available from 7.45am to 6pm.

An open day will be held on Friday, October 4.

Visit www.coopersalehall school.co.uk for details or contact admissions registrar Sally Potter on (01992) 577133 or email info@coopersalehallschool.co.uk.

Individualised study at Kumon

SUPPLEMENTARY education provider Kumon has welcomed the reformed primary school maths curriculum which was unveiled at the North of England Education Conference in Sheffield earlier this year.

The new curriculum indicates a return to tried and tested maths techniques in schools. New methods such as 'chunking' and 'gridding' will be recalled, with the return to the more traditional long division and multiplication techniques.

Kumon places great importance on children understanding how a calculation works. They achieve this through instruction of arithmetic operations using traditional methods, as visible in their unique maths programme. Through this practice students develop their mental agility and are able to maximise their ability.

The return of tried and tested maths techniques may do well to increase the performance of some areas where numeracy trends are failing.

Many parents are now looking for additional ways they can support their child's learning and looking towards supplementary education to help their child develop their maths and English skills to give them the best chance of succeeding in school and beyond.

Kumon centres in Bishop's Stortford, Harlow and Broxbourne offer unique maths and English study programmes for children of all ages and abilities.

Through individualised, advanced study, students at these centres are bucking the downward trend and studying above the international standard for their age.

The Kumon maths programme progresses from the very basics of counting to calculus and beyond, all without the use of a calculator.

For more information, see the Kumon advert and contact your local instructor.

'I've had a first-class education – and I've learned about the importance of community'

FOLLOWING their visit to Bishop's Stortford College, inspectors from the Independent Schools Inspectorate said that the school, in Maze Green Road, is "an exceptional learning community".

When reflecting on their time at the College, heads of school Ollie George and Lucy Clough, pictured right, encapsulate what makes it special.

For Lucy, one of the school's greatest traits is that you can be part of a close-knit community while still retaining your individuality and personality.

"This year's leavers show just how diverse a year group can be while still having that sense of togetherness and commonality," she said.

Ollie agreed, adding: "Without doubt what makes Bishop's Stortford College so extraordinary are the people within it.

"Not only have I received a first class education over the past 11 years, I have learned the importance of community.

"There have been so many landmark events that are nothing short of euphoric.

"The school fosters an inherent belief in opportunity and choice; it has taught me that regardless of anyone else's opinions, you should never let someone tell you that you cannot do something.

"Whether you think that's a cliché or not, it is undoubtedly the most prevalent lesson that I learnt in my time here and it's a lesson that I will take with me far beyond the classroom.

"The fact that every pupil walks away from Bishop's Stortford College having tried and accomplished a whole host of achievements is testament to this 'can do' spirit."

To discover more, visit www.bishoppstortfordcollege.org and go along to the open morning on September 21.

EDUCATION 2013

Fulfilling students' potential and developing their character

THIS summer's results have placed Haileybury, near Hertford, in the top five of co-educational boarding schools offering the International Baccalaureate Diploma.

Master of Haileybury Joe Davies said: "Academic education lies at the heart of Haileybury and we are committed to helping our pupils fulfil their considerable potential." 2012-13 saw some memorable moments, including celebration of the school's 150th anniversary and a royal visit by HRH The Duchess of Gloucester.

New facilities have enhanced the educational experience of pupils, such as completion of the second all-weather pitch, providing some of the best hockey facilities in Hertfordshire and the new social centre, an invaluable gathering place for all in the school community.

This autumn term, Haileybury welcomes several new staff, including the new director of rugby, Welsh Grand Slam-winning captain and former British and Irish Lion Michael Owen, and director of music Ryan Hepburn, formerly of St Paul's School.

Haileybury's programme of events and world-renowned visiting speakers and performers continues to grow.

Dr Paul Roberts, curator of the current British Museum exhibition 'Life and Death in Pompeii and Herculaneum', will visit on September 14; designer Kaffe Fassett on November 11 and award-winning former BBC chief news correspondent Kate Adie on November 21. Everyone is welcome to attend these events (see www.haileybury.com for details).

Haileybury provides exceptional opportunities and an all-round education that allows pupils to discover life-long passions and talents.

As Mr Davies said: "It is as much about character development as about academic learning."

Haileybury inspires

We are a leading 11-18 boarding & day school for boys & girls.

Academic rigour and outstanding co-curricular provision are at the heart of Haileybury, providing the exceptional opportunities and truly all-round education that allow our pupils to discover enduring passions and talents. We offer a choice of IB Diploma or A Levels in the Sixth Form.

Our next Open Mornings are:

13+ Saturday 28 September

16+ Saturday 5 October

11+ Thursday 17 October

Open House

The keys to selling any property are price, location and exposure. You can't change the location of your property, and the market determines the price. However, your agent can make significant inroads into how powerfully your property is exposed to the market.

One of the most effective methods is the open house. This is where the property is advertised as being open for anyone who wishes to view it at a certain time, usually during a weekend. Very common abroad, the open house is rapidly gaining popularity in the UK, and for good reason.

Firstly, one of the best sources of qualified buyers is via the neighbours. Everybody knows someone who is selling and people tend to buy in an area which is close to their existing network of friends and acquaintances. This is known as socio-demographic mirroring.

When a property goes on show, it is marketed intensely in the neighbourhood so that every neighbour is aware that the property is for sale. If they know anyone who is buying, they are highly likely to invite them round to see the property, or at least look at it on their behalf.

From the seller's perspective, having an open house can concentrate the viewings around a fixed time. Go for a walk and leave it all to the agent if you want to reduce some of the stress of selling!

Open house days tend to be very relaxed, and they create an environment where buyers do not feel in any way under pressure, but can take their time to consider a property's merits. Because of this, we find that more people register their interest during an open house than they would through the usual advertising channels.

As a celebration of a property, an open house promotes intense buyer activity which often prompts a sale, as everybody wants something that everybody else wants!

BY IAIN DOOLEY

WITH every new electric car that's launched, you could be forgiven for thinking that we're getting closer to an environmentalist's dream of carbon-free motoring.

Of course, there's still the dirty little secret the electricity used to charge the cars has yet to be generated entirely from rainbows, but with each new arrival comes fewer and fewer everyday compromises.

A prime example of this is Renault's Zoe, an electric alternative to the likes of its maker's own Clio supermini. Cars like the Zoe herald the introduction of products designed from the outset as full electric vehicles, not modified existing cars complete with all the inherent compromises.

Of course we've seen most of this before in the shape of Nissan's similarly sized Leaf, although the Japanese firm's offering is pitched at more affluent buyers. The Zoe's interior therefore might not be as plush as the Leaf's, but the upside is a price tag closer to the aforementioned Clio.

And if you want to generate mass-market appeal you need to focus your attention on the buyers of Clios, Fiesta and the like.

Visually the Zoe is as sensible as they come and, in truth, puts some of its engine-powered rivals to shame in the looks department. Inside, the Zoe's light and airy cabin is a welcome attribute. Clearly influenced by the latest generation Clio, the Zoe's main controls and displays offer a no-fuss approach to motoring.

And then there's the driving and ownership experience, which has been the downfall of so many electric cars in recent years.

Regarding the former, the Zoe drives very much like a conventional supermini with an auto gearbox. Acceleration from rest is brisk and the overall experience is a smooth one, with modest acceleration available instantly for the occasional bursts of speed when maintaining pace with rush-hour traffic.

The potentially thorny subject of living with, and charging, electric cars is dealt with neatly by the Zoe; the charging hardware is stored in the car's easily accessible nose, while the charge time can be reduced to just a few hours if you opt for a domestic wall box to supplement the ability to take power from a conventional outlet.

Officially the Zoe's range is around 130 miles but even Renault admits the real world figure will likely be lower depending on driver behaviour and outside temperature - the latter can influence range if it's very cold.

That said, around 80 miles should be achievable even without resorting to turning off the air-con or radio. And realistically the daily commutes of buyers in the market for a Zoe are likely to be modest compared to those of a motorway-munching company car driver, removing any serious range anxiety concerns.

As far as the current crop of electric cars go, the Zoe appears to be one of the most conventional in the way it looks, drives and integrates into your life. The car's Ford Fiesta-esque price tag is certainly attractive, although to get down to such a figure Renault has decided to separate the battery from the car in the overall financial equation.

Average mileage drivers will pay an all-inclusive monthly charge of £70 to lease the battery, with that figure rising or falling slightly if you decide to rack up greater or fewer miles respectively.

Along with this worry-free charge there's also the prospect of modest regular running and servicing costs. It's expected that major component wear - brakes and suspension for example - will easily be less than for a conventional car, while the zero-rated road tax should please you as much as the presence of a generous government grant to take the sting out of the purchase price.

There's little any car maker can do to hurry along the expansion of the public charging network, but making its products more appealing will go a long way to increasing the take-up of such vehicles, in turn, encouraging that expansion.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer
your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

RUNNING INTO GOOD FORM: Harlow Athletic Club juniors Lewis Harknett, Charlotte Pratt, James Murphy, Kai Boggan and Owen Harknett

Junior joy for Harlow athletes

HARLOW Athletic Club juniors were out in force for the Essex County Championships at Colchester and performed with distinction to win a bronze medal.

It was hard going on the track at the match with high temperatures and a strong headwind down the back straight.

Despite this the U-13 boys 3x800m relay team took bronze. Lewis Harknett, aged 12, led the Harlow AC team out and ran the good leg to hand over to the baton in third to twin brother Owen.

The anchor leg was run by newcomer James Murphy (11) and he secured third place with a brilliant finish and an impressive debut performance. Their time was seven minutes 52.1 seconds.

In the U-11 boy's 600m race Kai Boggan, the reigning Essex Schools Cross Country Champion, ran a new personal best time of 1:56.1 to finish in fourth place.

In the U-11 girls' 600m cross country runner Charlotte Pratt made a rare appearance on the track, running a new PB of 2:06.1 to finish sixth.

"Charlotte ran really well considering she is still recovering from illness and injury and it was questionable that she would be able to run only a few days before the race," Harlow AC coach Pail Bailey told the Star.

■ NINE-year-old Hollie McDardell from Fawbert and Barnard School, Old Harlow, put in an excellent performance in the U-11 girls' 600m.

From a field of 13, Hollie started towards the back but gradually moved through to claim fifth spot with a time of two minutes 03 seconds, a new PB.

Hollie, who was representing Woodford Green and Essex Ladies, was given the same time as the fourth placed runner. She has another year in the age group.

were a bit of nerves in the first 20 or 30 minutes. You could see people did not want to make a mistake."

Harlow's Darren Blewitt went off after a clash of heads in the 41st minute and he was replaced by Darren Williams.

"We had to be careful with Darren Blewitt and Darren Williams did well," said Chapman.

The deadlock was not broken until the stroke of half-time.

A Robbie Martin cross from the left was nodded home by Leon Antoine.

Chapman said: "They had a lot of possession in the first half but it was like subteo football on the eye."

"It looked fantastic but it did not cause any danger but it was only a matter of time before we scored."

He added: "It helped our confidence and I never thought we would lose."

The home advantage was doubled in the 49th minute.

Good work by Read set up Chinedu McKenzie to finish.

Read then made it 3-0 from an 82 minute penalty awarded for handball.

Hamlets scored a consolation in the 90th minute through a long range effort from Joe Killingback.

However, almost straight from the kick-off, Harlow grabbed a fourth goal.

Read shot home to complete a brace.

Chapman added: "It was good to score a goal straight away and it was our best one as we got behind the defence."

Harlow have a tougher task in the first round when they host Ryman League premier division outfit Lowestoft Town on Saturday September 14.

Rams ladies face friendly

HARLOW Rugby Cub ladies team warm up for their forthcoming league campaign when they host New Ash Green in a friendly this Sunday.

New Ash Green have been promoted for this season to the RFUW Championship division two South East.

This places them a division above Harlow who play in National Challenge SE north division one.

Harlow finished 4th last season.

Harlow ladies open their league campaign with a home match against Wellingborough on Sunday September 15.

Harlow then take on Wymondham at home in the league on Sunday October 6.

The Rams Ladies recently took part in a triangular 10-a-side tournament.

This gave them a chance to get several brand new players on the pitch for a trial run before the season commences.

A club spokesperson said:

"Numbers are looking good even though a couple of players have left the squad and relocated as a result of work commitments."

"New players however are always welcome, whether beginners wanting to learn the game or experienced players maybe looking to play at a higher level."

Meanwhile Harlow men's first team will round off their pre-season preparations with a friendly this Saturday.

They will be hosting Stevenage who play in the RFU London division three north west league.

This is a league that lies directly parallel to the one that Harlow plays in.

Harlow then start their league campaign when they host Canvey Island in London division three north east on Saturday September 15.

The Rams finished mid-table last term but will be aiming to move up the table this time and make a real challenge for promotion.

Town are caught

HARLOW Town were beaten in their penultimate game when they lost a high-scoring clash to Westcliff-on-Sea away by six wickets in division three of the Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League.

Town batted first on Saturday and a useful knock came from opener Matt Hurley who made 33.

When he went, Harlow were 74-2.

Ramya Upadhyay joined Bilal Ali and the pair added 57 for the third wicket.

Ali was then bowled by Adam Pickering for 44.

However, Upadhyay remained and he was the anchor of the innings, batting through to score 78 not out.

He received good support from late order batsmen Ashley Alderson and Shaun Alderson who made 23 and 33 respectively. Town in the end totalled 272-9.

from their 50 overs.

Pickering took 4-61 from 10 overs while Westcliff's most economical bowler was Graham Cox who claimed 1-31 from 10 overs.

In reply, Westcliff needed 5.46 an over to win and had a bad start when Ashley Alderson had opener Simon Mugavera caught by Ali for 0.

However, Bob Curtis and Adam Sinclair added 93 for the second wicket to give the home innings a foundation.

Curtis went for 35 followed shortly after by Sinclair for 52 to leave the hosts on 109-3.

Any doubt was then settled by captain Peter Barnes.

He made 84 not out and guided Westcliff (276-4) home with 4.4 overs to spare.

He received good support from Pickering (28) and Lewis Groves (44 not out). Daniel Farmer (0-37) was wicketless but was the most economical bowler.

Tough time in Zurich for runner Osagie

ANDREW Osagie came seventh in the 800m men's race at Thursday's Diamond League meet.

The Harlow Running Club member and former Burnt Mill and Leventhorpe School student was clocked at one minute 45.80 seconds in Zurich, Switzerland.

This was a high standard race with a top quality field. The first home was American runner Nick Symmonds in 1:43.56.

Osagie, 25, ran 1.44 seconds quicker when he came fifth in the 800m final (1:44.36) at the World Championships in Moscow last month.

His time in Zurich was still his fifth fastest in 2013.

He said: "So I'd like to say I raced tonight but it was more of a messy run. Seems Switzerland only brings me pain.. Good job they do good chocolate!"

Muguo flies back into Hawks fold

HARLOW Town's squad has been boosted after midfielder Stanley Muguo re-signed for the club.

Muguo left in the close season. He was not able to agree terms with Hawks manager Danny Chapman and went to join Thamesmead Town but he has returned.

Muguo is a passionate player and is a good ball winner in the middle.

With Harlow's new playing surface not likely to be so affected by bad weather, his attributes will be particularly useful in mid-winter away games on wet pitches.

Chapman said: "We did not leave on bad terms and it had not worked out for him at Thamesmead."

"He will complement Michael Gliddon and Jordan Fowler well."

He added: "We now have 21 players and normally you would have one or two who are not playing and wanting to leave but everybody wants to be here."

"The spirit here is fantastic." Muguo has come on board in time for Harlow's home clash against Burnham Ramblers.

Burnham were promoted from the Essex Senior League at the end of last season.

Burnham have won two out of five matches and are 19th in the 24-team table but have played one match fewer than most of the other sides. Harlow are sixth after picking up 10 points from six games.

Chapman said: "I do not know much about them, but I expect it will be a tough game."

Chapman will be hoping that his team's defensive inconsistencies can be ironed out quickly.

They let in five goals against Thurrock, four against Waltham Abbey and three against Barkingside.

This weakness needs to be

COMEBACK: Midfielder Stanley Muguo has been re-signed by Hawks manager Danny Chapman eradicated if they are to make a play-off bid.

The Hawks boss hopes that his team will be further boosted by three players coming back from injury.

"I am hoping that Jordan Fowler [quad strain] and Glenn Parry [groin strain] can come back," said Chapman.

"There is also a possibility that Scott Curley [hamstring injury] can come back."

However, Harlow will still be without keeper Danny Knowles (leg injury), defender Christian Wheeler (ankle problem) and Danny Brown (calf injury).

With 46 league games instead of 42 this term there are more midweek games this season.

Another one comes next Tuesday when Harlow face Heybridge Swifts away.

Swifts are currently fourth in the table and will give Harlow a good idea of where they stand.

Chapman said: "It will be a tough game and they have started off very well this season."

"They have made some good signings in the summer and will be there or thereabouts this season."

Third straight win gives Harlow hope

AHMED Khawaja's class with the bat was decisive as Harlow eased their relegation fears with a 47-run win at Woodford Wells in division one of the Shepherd Neame Essex League on Saturday.

Khawaja's unbeaten 123 in Harlow's penultimate match gave them their third straight win and moved them out of the drop zone into eighth spot in the 10-team table. Two teams are set to go down and Harlow are eighth and 10 points ahead of ninth-placed Orsett.

Basement side Fives and Heronians cannot overhaul Harlow, who will host third-placed Ardleigh Green in their last game this Saturday. Meanwhile, Orsett host sixth-placed Hadleigh & Thundersley.

Batting first against Woodford, Harlow put on 48 for the first wicket before Ramsay was bowled.

Khawaja and Rehman Ahmed then took the score to 114 before the latter went for 25. Harlow then reached 177-7. But captain Luke Heskett (18) and Lloyd Sykes (13 not out) gave Khawaja good support as Harlow smashed 44 in the last three overs to finish 246-8 in their 50 overs.

In reply, Ant Webb gave Harlow the perfect start, bowling Aussie star Andrew Baars for just 4.

However Wells fought back and reached 114-3. The turning point came when Heskett re-introduced his opening pair.

Luke Monger removed Styles 24 and the classy Shah for 48.

Another wicket fell to leave Wells on 136-6. Sixty was then added for the hosts' seventh wicket before two quick wickets fell after two good knocks from Ellison (32) and Sadra (33).

Monger took two more quick wickets to finish with 4-48 as Wells were bowled out for 201.

Heskett said: "Ahmed's innings was special and our bowlers bowled well and our fielding was excellent.

"We are far from safe. Only a victory against promotion-chasing Ardleigh Green will assure us of safety.

He added: "It's the biggest game we have played in a long time."
